

Mosquito Habitats

Did you know that one inch of standing water could produce over 1,000 mosquitoes in seven days? Mosquitoes start out as eggs in water and develop into larva, which go through five growing stages before becoming a flying adult. Different species prefer different types of aquatic habitats to complete their development.

Marshes

Storm Drains

Ornamental Ponds

Water Troughs

Open Containers

Abandoned Tires

Unused Pools

Rain Gutters