Ted and Cindy Mackley Retire from the Sheriff's Office

June 30, 2015–Today, the Washington County Sheriff's Office (WCSO) celebrates the retirement of married couple, Lieutenant Cindy Mackley and Sergeant Ted Mackley after almost 50 combined years of honorable service to Washington County.

Throughout their careers, the Mackleys have both demonstrated integrity and an enduring commitment to the Washington County Sheriff's Office and its mission. Sheriff Pat Garrett said, "Jail work is extraordinarily difficult. Those who do it well are unsung heroes in public safety. Cindy and Ted Mackley are two of those heroes. I thank them for their terrific work and leadership over many years."

Cindy joined the WCSO in 1991. She held positions of increasing responsibility including Field Training Officer, Jail Sergeant managing jail operations and administration, as well as Sergeant in the WCSO Professional Standards Unit. She was promoted to Lieutenant in August 2004 where she worked in both jail operations and jail administration before 2007 when she assumed the responsibilities of the Patrol Administrative Lieutenant until her retirement. During her career, Cindy worked as a suicide prevention instructor and was also a representative of the Washington County Police Officer Association (WCPOA) Division Executive Board.

Ted joined WCSO in 1990. He quickly became a firearms instructor, defensive tactics instructor, and was part of a small team who developed essential curriculum concerning Use of Force standards. Ted also was a part of WCSO's leadership team, earning a promotion to Sergeant in 1997. During his time as a Sergeant in the jail, he was the founder and team commander of the Corrections Emergency Response Team and co-developed the Mobile Response Team.

Ted and Cindy met at the WCSO and were married in 1995. According to the happy couple, they look forward to spending time with their son, traveling, volunteering their time to various community organizations and golfing.
