Japanese Beetle Eradication Program

Representatives from the Oregon Department of Agriculture

The Oregon Department of Agriculture is the lead agency for an important effort to stop this dangerous invasive pest. Staff will provide information about the planned project to eradicate the Japanese beetle before it can spread beyond the current affected area centered in Cedar Mill and Bethany. If the community cooperates, we can halt this pest before it affects our roses, grapes, orchard fruits, cane berries, corn, hops, and Oregon's nursery and turf grass industries. For more info:
